Subject: Two environmental projects at Computershare's Bristol office win in firm's global Green Oscar Awards

Bristol Thursday 26 February 2015 – The UK headquarters of financial services company Computershare (ASX: CPU) in Bristol has picked up two awards in the firm's global Green Oscar Awards.

For the second year in a row, the global firm has awarded prizes to employees who have undertaken projects that help it conduct business in a sustainable way.

This year the Bristol office scooped prizes for switching to Fairtrade suppliers for tea, coffee and sugar and for improving the accessibility of the company's free bus to work service.

Lucy Newcombe, global Corporate Communications Director for Computershare, said: "Congratulations to our Bristol staff members whose efforts have improved our offices on Bridgwater Road – and have played an important part in our global efforts to protect and improve the environment.

"Computershare works hard to ensure we act in an environmentally responsible manner, and these are just two of a range of initiatives around the world that reduce or offset our energy consumption, water and paper use, waste disposal and air travel, as well as helping communities live more sustainably.

"Voting was really tight in this year's awards, which reflects the hard work that has gone in to these projects in Bristol and around the world."

Sophie Luxon, Procurement Assistant at Computershare and the employee behind the Fairtrade initiative, said: "We've not only saved Computershare over £7,000 a year; we've also made a positive impact on the communities where the products were made."

Melody Serle, Project Manager at Computershare and part of the team who delivered the bus route project, said: "By mapping the postcodes of our employees, we will be able to improve the route of our free bus, reduce the number of staff using cars and improve air quality in Bristol."

As a result of the Fairtrade initiative, Computershare have been named a Fairtrade Workplace of WorldChangers by the Fairtrade Foundation.

47 projects were submitted to the Green Oscars from 11 countries, including entries from Rostov, Beijing, Canton, Calgary and Hyderabad.

The global winner of the firm's 2015 Green Oscar Awards was the replacement of paper work with online storage systems in Victoria, Australia.

In November 2014, Computershare was named the 'most improved work place' in the West of England at the Travelwest Sustainable Travel Awards.
